Project Info Given Solicitors As Students Divide For Drive

Instructions were given to student project solicitors by the Student Senate at a meeting held last Tuesday evening in room 20 of Luther hall.

Student Senate selected 30 students to contact other students and ask them to contribute to the project. The solicitors live in the same location at Wartburg as those they are to contact.

Students Divided.

In order to create interest, the student body has been divided into five groups. These five groups are divided and determined by their residence while at Wartburg. Group 1, named the Fighting Northwestern, is made up of all off-campus boys living in the northwestern part of Waverly, including Brewer's annex. The Local Bums, or Group 2 is made up of all other off-campus students not living in college annexes.

In the third group, the Terrible Tigers, are all the people living in North hall, the Boehme house (White House), all the women's annexes and the college trailers.

Residents of the first floor of Grossmann hall and the third and fourth floors of Wartburg hall are in the fourth group known as the Batting Beetles. The fifth and last group, the Eagle Eagles, includes all those living on the second floor of Grossmann hall and the first and second floors of Wartburg hall.

Map of the south campus area has been placed in Luther hall. This map has circles which represent trees and squares, which represent shrubs. The circles are varied in color representing different prices, which are the approximate cost of the actual trees. The various prices listed on the trees are $15, $12, $10, $7.50, $5 and $3. Whenever a contribution has been made, a circle valued the same amount as the contribution will be colored within and the contributor's name placed in the circle.

Graph Lists Teams.

Graph, with the various teams listed parallel, has also been placed in Luther hall. This graph will represent the progress made by each team. Results in the drive will be posted every day, both on the map and on the graph.

Each student will be contacted before Easter vacation by a solicitor. When a contribution is made the solicitor will write down the amount so that the person may be credited for it on the map. According to the committee no closing date for the drive has been set, nor has the committee set a goal.

Project committee reminds the students that only as much landscaping will be done as the student's help pay for. That is, if the students do not raise enough to complete the homecoming, then that which is not paid for will not be landscaped.

Fossum Stresses New Education Field

Stressing the need for teachers trained in the field of specialized education of the handicapped under a new Iowa statute, Dr. E. C. Fossum of Iowa State Teachers college, Cedar Falls, addressed the Future Teachers convention in the lounge of Wartburg Hall, Monday, March 15.

President C. H. Becker of Wartburg welcomed the 112 delegates from Luther, Upper Iowa, Iowa State Teachers, Mason City Junior college, and Wartburg who were present. The Wartburg chapter sponsored a noon banquet which 90 delegates attended.

The problem of organizing the Iowa Future Teachers delegate assembly better was discussed at the afternoon business session.

'Must Face Reality,' Says Thompson

Meeting Miss Dorothy Thompson at the reception after her speech in Waverly are Ella Mae and Audra Peters. In the receiving line with Miss Thompson are President and Mrs. C. H. Becker.

"We must face reality in the present situation," Miss Dorothy Thompson told her audience at the final Artist Series presentation March 16 at the Waverly high school auditorium.

Author and journalist, Miss Thompson described the suicide of Jan Masaryk in Czechoslovakia "because it throws an awesome light on the European situation, and especially since it is the second death in the last few months of men who were symbols of peace."

Forces Conspire.

"Many forces conspired to make this suicide inevitable—the fact that it is often an invitation of failure to begin a new project; the realization that there is no substitute for power politics; the coup, called a revolution, not for, but against, the people. All these conspired for the tragic death of Jan Masaryk," she continued.

President Benes of Czechoslovakia and Foreign Minister Masaryk were determined to face the reality in this situation. They met the USSR with peace and cordiality. The Czechslovak geographical position is unique, so they would give no cause of complaint to Russia. They yielded to every legitimate Russian request, according to the speaker.

To some this temporizing seemed cowardly and shabby. But at least Masaryk had two basic determinations—to make no contribution to the next war and to live his one and only life for, as he called them, "my little Czechs."

Policy Succeeds.

This policy succeeded. The people in Czechoslovakia could speak on domestic affairs. There was no terror of the secret police. The judges were impartial. The press was free to criticize domestic policies, but not Russia.

Alluding to a friendship of 25 years standing, Miss Thompson told of her last meeting with Masaryk at a dinner given by John Gunther in New York last November 15. Then he seemed to her so like Prince Hamlet in his struggle that she was forced to write him about it. One phrase in his reply impressing her was "I won't go down the drain without a squawk."

Chaplain To Lecture

Byrd Antarctic expedition chaplain, Lt. Comdr. William J. Menster, will give an illustrated lecture of "Operation Highjump" at the high school auditorium, March 30 at 8 p. m. Dr. J. B. Hemingway, commander of the Waverly Amvets, announced that students are invited to attend this special program.

Included in the lecture will be the showing of 1,500 feet of color movies taken personally by the chaplain on this unusual cruise to the South Pole.

Leadership School Faculty Meets

Faculty members at the Luther League leadership school at St. Paul Lutheran church last weekend were Dr. Emanuel Poppen, general president of the American Lutheran church. The Rev. Marcus Rieke, south, director of the ALC and dean of the school faculty. Dr. H. W. Stuhlee, president of the Iowa district ALC, and Dr. Carl Reuss, executive secretary of the Board of Charity, ALC.

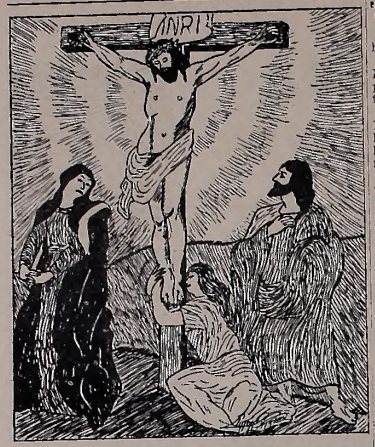
Dr. Reuss was also on the Wartburg campus in regard to the offer extended him to become dean of the college faculty to replace Dean G. J. Neumann who wants to devote all his time to acting as head of the English department and vice-president of the college.

Roller Skating

All-school roller skating party, to be sponsored by the sophomore class, will be held, Wednesday, April 28, at the Waterloo rink, according to William Ehrich, class chairman for the event.

Transportation to the party will cost students 56 cents and entrance is 44 cents. Girls will receive 11 o'clocks from the dean of women to attend the party.

Lists for signing will be posted on a bulletin board.



Tomb Completes Immortality

Immortality of the soul with God was not complete until Jesus left the tomb being raised from the dead. This alone gave the believers assurance that this life on earth was not the end, for He had taken the sting out of death and gained victory over the grave which no longer can hold the soul.

In trying to prevent Jesus from keeping this promise, "After three days I will rise again," the Pharisees asked that a stone be rolled before the tomb and sealed, and guards were stationed there to keep watch.

These soldiers and the sealed stone were unable to hold our Lord, He came forth as the victor. After the disappearance of Jesus the guards were bribed in order that they might report that the body had been stolen by His disciples while they slept.

When the seals were broken and the rock rolled away from the door, the Son of Man stepped forth to the glory of all heaven. "He who had been dead was now alive for evermore, and He bore the keys of hell and death."

The false reports of the soldiers concerning His escape cannot be valid after we read that He made Himself known to Mary and the disciples. It was the same body with the nail-printed hands, and the pierced side that these people witnessed.

Today we do not preach a dead Christ, but a living Saviour, for the tomb is empty, it could not hold him. If we ignore the risen Christ we do not have the Gospel. Resurrection and life are the key words to our message. Christianity alone can proclaim the way of life through a man who died and after three days rose again.

This is not only the message of Easter, but for every day of the year—a message which announces that Christ is living, being exalted at the right hand of Almighty God, now as Savior making intercession for His own, but eventually as Judge of all men.

We preach Christ, not His life, but His death and resurrection. "This same Jesus which is taken up into heaven, shall come in like manner as ye have seen Him go into heaven."

'Son Of Man Must Suffer'

"The Son of Man must suffer, be rejected, be slain, and be raised on the third day."

When Jesus was placed on the cross, these words which He had spoken to His disciples were being fulfilled. His purpose for coming into this world was to die, "for without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin."

Jesus loved the world enough to go to Calvary, for after He had set His face toward Jerusalem there was no turning back. The Son of God did not defend Himself as He stood before Caiaphas or Pilate, or plead with them to set Him free.

Our Lord was not only willing to die, but the Father was willing to give His Son for that purpose. John tells us that God had planned before the foundation of the world that the Lamb should be slain—slain in order that men and women might have a way of escape from the guilt of their sins.

In spite of the love of God for the world, there is still human guilt connected with His death. It was the sins of the world that placed Him on the tree. On that day when they crucified Jesus they had condemned the Son of God.

Living in those days were men who were guilty of having Christ delivered to the cross. One such man was Caiaphas, a high priest. He did not recognize the Messiah, but was envious of Him, declaring that Jesus had blasphemed; therefore, by their law He should die.

Another guilty man was Pilate who delivered Ghrist to the crowd. In his fear of the mob he allowed a righteous man to be crucified, a man in whom he could find no fault. This governor claimed innocence, hoping the blame would go to the Jews.

A third guilty party was the mob who said, "Let His blood be upon us." These people asked to have Barabbas released, and with Him they received their own condemnation. When Pilate asked them what he should do with the King of the Jews, they shouted, "Crucify Him; away with Him."

Today the guilty crowd is not so different from those Jews who lived over 1900 years ago. How long would Jesus be allowed to live if He were in America today? He is not here physically, yet they mock Him, they use His name in vain, they laugh at the existence of God, or at the deity of Christ.

What shall we do with Jesus? To those who have said yes to Him, they know that His death meant a perfect sacrifice for sin. With Paul they can say, "Thanks be unto God for His unspeakable gift."

Ideal, Real Present Contrast

At this season of Easter we are faced as never before with the contrast between the ideal of peace, brotherhood and goodness represented by the Christian faith, and the real world of war, chaos and evil.

We are inclined to listen with growing horror to the alarmism of a Mr. Winchell, the "necessity" of Mr. Truman and the pessimism of Miss Thompson.

These grim facts must be faced, it is true; but the difference lies in the way we face these realities.

We can scrap all our plans for a world government, for a more democratic world order. We can decide that all is lost, or we can retreat within our small souls and say we alone are against the forces of evil.

Or we can realize that like Elijah, we here in the West are not alone in our goals, and that we have a responsibility to plan, work, and strive for a better tomorrow.

The season of joy in the Apostolic Creed "He was,—is—and shall be," is the keynote of true Christian thought, a keystone which has survived the worst disasters for centuries. With this bulwark then true Christians should not fear the future.

-Oph Thalmos-

For President:
John Thompson ( )
Henry Logan ( )
Ames Underwood ( )

If you were now at the polls electing the President of the United States, which of the above candidates would you chose?

—?—

Do you know very much more about Harold Stassen, Harry Truman, Arthur Vandenberg, Thomas Dewey or any of the other presidential aspirants than you do of our three fictional candidates? Do you know which one of these men would be best suited to head our nation during this, the world's greatest crisis?

—?—

Why not?

—?—

Oh, you're not yet of voting age. But when will you be privileged to cast a ballot? If you have passed your 17th birthday before the coming election, you will be of voting age at the following national presidential polling.

—?—

Does that mean anything to you?

—?—

In only four years all of us, you and Eye, shall have the duty, the moral responsibility, of electing, of picking, the men to run our nation, and perhaps the world.

—?—

But what does the average college student know about national and international affairs? How many of us know our own state senators and representatives? How many know who handles our state department business? How many know who heads the more important foreign nations? Or even, who is the president of Mexico?

—?—

And that is not a good condition in which to find oneself. True, we can't vote, many of us, until the next election, but how long will it be before we can?—Four years, which pass very quickly. You can remember the last election. It seems just a short time ago.

—?—

You still wonder why all the fuss? Here's why. To be a good voter, one must have a good knowledge of both world conditions and candidates. One must know how things have come to the point in which we find ourselves so that we can intelligently choose. And this takes time. We must begin now to study these things. They should be part of our education as much as our chemistry or English assignments. We cannot claim to be fully educated unless we know what is happening in the world about us. We cannot honestly reach out for our diplomas without this knowledge.

And we cannot fully live if we are ignorant of these facts. How well did you understand Dorothy Thompson or Lowell Mellett? How much more clear it would have been to us had we known more about the circumstances of which they spoke. And a truly educated person, such as they, has the right to expect that "educated" college students have knowledge on this subject.

But I don't have time?

—?—

It takes a short time to read the newspaper. A news magazine takes less time in the long run, and gives a clearer overall picture. Then there are the various radio broadcasts—even, sometimes, forums. And if you haven't learned yet to read, there is Life. They will take some time, but everything worthwhile takes time. And this business is very important to all of us.

It is our duty as citizens to find out, to keep informed on world affairs. It is our duty as scholars, as future leaders and as educated people (as we claim to be). Very well was it said that the blind can lead the blind. How true is this in our case. Can we be leaders in our nation if we do not know what is going on in the family of nations? Can we lead if we are blind?

My mother and I wish to express our heartfelt appreciation to our many friends at Wartburg for their kind expressions of sympathy at the loss of our husband and father.—Ernest Thieke.

E. G. Heist Continues Instruction After 37 Years

Piano teacher at Waverly for the last 37 years and former conductor of orchestra, band and choir at Wartburg, E. G. Heist still instructs about one hundred pupils every week.

Included in this week's issue of the TRUMPET is a copy of one of many choral compositions for a cappella choir which he has written besides pieces for orchestra, piano and specially organ.

For a couple dozen years the musician served as organist for St. Paul's church, playing at three services every Sunday and often during the week.

As a teacher Mr. Heist has coached three pianists to national championships besides a list of six state winners. One of his earlier pupils was Frederick Feldman who now is the favorite pianist of the president of Brazil. He arranges music for his orchestra for South American dances, following more or less the Duke Ellington style.

Among the most active of his students was Sharon Carrott, who drove from Rockford for eight years to take lessons under Mr. Heist. She was a national contest winner, presented five annual recitals and covered 35,000 miles of travelling for lessons during her work under him.

In his spare time, the piano instructor is an ardent reader of books, religious, political, scientific or musical. A member of three book clubs, he keeps his library up to date. On his table this week-end are such books as "A Scientist's Approach to Religion" by Millie, "Causes of Catastrophe" by Don Lee, and "The Goodly Fellowship of the Prophets" by John Patterson.

Still in top physical shape, Mr. Heist has always been an advocate of physical development. For four years he got up every morning, took a cold shower and went on a mile run. He never wore an overcoat during that four-year period and claims he was healthier than he is now.

This pianist is the father of four children, scattered all over the country. Martin is in New Guinea, serving in the mission field, and Erwin is at Iowa university studying to be a medical missionary. Paulus is also at school, working on his doctor's degree in psychology. Herb is a student at Wartburg and now is spending most of his time at raising Mr. Heist's second grandchild.

Knight Matmen Take Tourney

By Adam Meldinger

Wartburg college matmen are champions of the Iowa conference. The Knights finished their first wrestling season in grand style by winning the first annual conference wrestling tournament Saturday night at the St. Ambrose gym in Davenport.

Wartburg scored 36 points on three individual championships plus four second place winners. St. Ambrose was second with 30 points and Penn took third place with 28 tallies.

Three Champions.

Individual Knight champions were Art Matthias, "Joe" Baumgartner and Howard Wolfgram in the 128, 136 and 145 pound classes, respectively.

Coach "Nellie" Nelson's boys, after having tied and lost with both Penn and St. Ambrose during the regular season, came back strong and went on to win in the tourney over the two other strongest contenders for the title.

Nelson was impressed by Art Matthias' showing against Bill Walsh of St. Ambrose. Walsh had previously won a decision over Matthias but Art upset the applecart and went on to win the championship in his class.

Wally Lynes, Knight heavyweight, who had been out for wrestling for only a few weeks, also made an outstanding showing as he threw his opponent in the first round and then placed as a second-place winner and gained four valuable team points.

Stubenvoll Forfeits.

Knight Emil Stubenvoll was forced to forfeit in the final round of his match after a minute and a half because of a loose rib. "Stu" however, gained four team points for Wartburg by placing second in his weight division.

Hats off, also, to Lloyd Koob, who, after grappling in the heavyweight division during most of the season, worked down to the 165 pound class and also gained a second place in the tourney.

Six conference schools entered in the first wrestling tournament in Iowa conference history with Wartburg, St. Ambrose and Penn being the only schools represented by complete teams.

Monday First Ball, Track Call

First call for baseball and track will be on Monday, March 22.

All men who are going out for baseball are asked to report with shorts and shoes to Coach Melvin C. Nelson in the gymnasium at 4:30 p.m. The men will go through a "period of conditioning until it is dry enough to go outside," stated Nelson.

The baseball schedule as yet is not definite but Coach Nelson plans for ten or twelve games with "quite a few" being doubleheaders. The first game is tentatively scheduled for April 16.

Track men are asked by Coach Axel Bundgaard to also check out their equipment on Monday afternoon.

Coach Bundgaard will build his team around five returning lettermen, Waldo Platte, sophomore two miler, Leroy Quandt, junior two miler, Jim Keller, sophomore high jumper and "Dutch" Sauerbry, sophomore hurdler.

Bundgaard plans to enter Knight track men in the following meets: a triangular meet with Upper Iowa and Luther, the Iowa Teachers Relays, the Drake Relays on April 23 and 24, the Viking meet at Augustana college, the Iowa conference meet on May 14 and 15 and a dual meet at Dubuque with the Spartans.

Golf and tennis will begin as soon as weather permits according to Coach Bundgaard. Three tennis lettermen, Bob Engelbrecht, 1947 conference singles champion, Tom Hankins and Ted Gluckert and two lettermen in golf, Emil Stubenvoll and Wendell Richmond will be back.

Tentative tennis meets have been scheduled with Dubuque, Iowa State Teachers, Luther and the conference tennis and golf meet at Loras on May 14 and 15.

Golf meets with Iowa Teachers, Dubuque and St. Ambrose have also been tentatively scheduled.

Looking 'Em Over

Knights win loop title! That was the headline in the daily papers bringing Wartburgers the glorious news that the alma mater had won a conference championship.

All credit goes to the hard working Knight grapplers and the untiring efforts of Coach Nelson. The Orange and Black failed to post a win all season, although they did gain two ties. The stiff competition arranged by "Nellie" paid a large dividend in the final meet of the season—the one that counted.

Especially gratifying is the fact that seven Knights qualified for the final round, and three, Art Matthias, "Jojo" Baumgartner and Howard Wolfgram, emerged as conference champs.

Too much credit cannot be given to rugged Wally Lynes, who came out with only two weeks of the season remaining, to strengthen the depleted ranks of the heavyweights. With the development he made in just two weeks as an indication, this column believes that Wally has the qualifications of an outstanding wrestler.

A special bouquet is due to Coach Nelson, who took over a group of men with little or no experience, and with much work and effort developed them into conference champions.

Ten Knight matmen earned the coveted letters, which they can wear with pride, for they are true champions, one and all.

"On the Spot" cannot overlook those men who did not make the team, but who remained out for practice during the entire season, without a word of praise. To single out an individual typical of these men is not difficult. Victor Hoops, who received a broken nose in an early practice session, had the stamina and courage to continue in the sport to the very end.

Around The Conference

Today is the end of the state high school basketball tournament. For the winner it has been a long climb up the ladder to the championship. In fact it has been a long climb for all of the 16 teams which have played in this tournament. One of the teams, Hudson, was coached by a Wartburg alumnus of 1939.

In the future, it is our wish that more of the outstanding teams of the state may be coached by Wartburg alumni.

Predictions

Throughout the year this column has been conservative in its predictions. We are continuing this policy.

The cloudy mist over the crystal ball is clearing and we see a long range prediction. Wartburg again captures the wrestling crown in 1949! Wartburg—the team to beat in 1950. Wartburg—cinch for national wrestling honors.

From Tour To Studies

Once more the choir has returned from its annual spring tour to the routine of college studies. With horns blowing and with shouts of joy and maybe a few sad faces the choristers pulled up to the college campus.

Quickly they left the busses to be greeted by their roommates, friends and some by that special person. What joy and happiness to return with the warm sun of spring shining upon them and the welcome greetings of all those whom they had left behind 17 days before!

Everyone was happy to be back but all were not too happy about returning to their studies which they had been deprived of for over two weeks. A number of the choristers began right out on the old routine by reporting to work in the afternoon, and it is rumored that some reported to their afternoon classes.

Soon everyone will be back in the swing of the regular routine any many will forget that they had been gone for two weeks, but not to be forgotten will be the snow, the meals, the wonderful people who were their hosts, and all the wonderful times that were had on the busses.

Very interesting was the talk given by Rev. Hanselmann, on his work in New Guinea. Several students were dressed in the native costumes and we then saw what the typical New Guinea native wears.

Wartburg Students Accept Responsibility Of Housing Sophocles

Wartburg students have taken up the responsibility of housing Sophocles, wayward stepson of Donald Fallon and Gerald Herbener, and his fellow squirrels. Since it was discovered that the experiment of raising squirrels in the dormitory was unsuccessful, the planting of trees and shrubs on the campus would be the solution.

Other advantages to the plan have come forth as the drive has been progressing. For instance, there is the foresight of the landscaper in establishing two long, shady sidewalks. That arrangement will certainly prevent possible collisions of last minute class-goers and certainly has possibilities for advantageous evenings for Wartburg's couples.

Because of these immediate needs and a few others that need not be mentioned, posters, maps and charts have covered the halls of the Ad building and solicitors have been contacting their fellow students.

For a "shady future" under bigger and better trees, students are advising each other, "Better Buy a Bush."

Bray At Passavant

Miss Helen Bray, a child welfare consultant, will speak on the different phases of Red Cross work at a meeting of the Passavant club at 7:30 Tuesday, March 23.

Miss Bray was with the Red Cross in Texas City, Tex., last year, when Texas City had its great disaster. Miss Bray will tell of the aid given by the Red Cross to the people of that city.

Hot Coals

From The Ash Can

Back under the kettle of student gossip and hotter than ever for having so much fuel with no chance to glow, Hot Coals returns to campus literature.

In spite of, or possibly because of, the blizzards that accompanied the choristers on their tours through the Great Plains, they really seem to have enjoyed their trip. To mention a few of the members who really enjoy the pleasures of traveling, such couples as Ray Meier and Doris Herrboldt or Ed Zelle and Elaine Jakel might be listed. Johnny DeYoung might be placed first on the list along with Anna Marie Walther. Evidently Johnny was inspired by the fact that he was closer to California and that on the next trip he would go all the way to the coast.

But Johnny is not the only Californian who has been feeling his oats. His buddy from L. A., JIM HEDSTROM, has taken renewed interest in girls from the Land o' Corn, to the tune of "MARGIE" (WALKER that is.) To complete the picture of realdenis in the Grube house, the fact that BERT LOHR showed up at the Lyceum with MAGGIE DEGUISNE, corsage and all, might be noted. Of course, BRUCE FRITZ was one happy boy when the choir came back. Evidently he wanted the Colorado news from the soprano soloist. What gives, BETTY?

Other happy people were found on the campus at the return of the choir. Elaine Winsell managed to catch a smile or two from "Red" Rathe, and Bob Heidtke had not changed his mind about Lois Volkmann.

Some fortunate couples had no trouble over choir tour. EDIE KRESSIN and WALLY BREDENBACH might be cited as examples. One of the newest couples on the campus which has been making regular connections at dinner and chapel is the NORTON RAABE-SYLVIE WENDLAND combination. CARL SCHEFFEL, another of the Texas boys, is keeping Texas in the running for this issue of Hot Coals with his interest in VERNIE OCHSNER. (That third floor is really becoming popular.)

Eugene Oppermann is still busy filling up the evenings of Betty Biedermann. Giving him a close run for time spent in such occupations is George Ennen, who has been going over to visit Marilyn Schultz.
